Instruction & Research Users' Group
February Review

Check out what's been happening with large-scale computing at UF with the Instruction and Research Users' Group meetings!

At the most recent I&R Users' Group meeting, held on Friday, February 1, 2002, topics of discussion included:

- Steve Ulmer, NERSP Virus Checking
- Vicki Kitts-Turner, New NETg Server

All interested faculty and A&P are invited to join this group by attending the regularly scheduled meetings.

The NERDC Instruction and Research (I&R) Users' Group serves as an advisory group to NERDC management. Participation in this group provides faculty and A&P staff with a unique opportunity to stay apprised of the large-scale computing facilities available to them. The I&R Users' Group meets the first Friday of each month (except summer) in the NERDC Library, Room 101, Space Sciences Research Building, from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

You can find agendas for upcoming meetings and sign up for the new I&R e-mail list at the I&R Web page at http://nersp.cns.ufl.edu/~ircomm.
