UF Represented At FAEDS '97

University of Florida computing interests were well-represented at the recent conference of the Florida Association of Educational Data Systems (FAEDS) in Orlando. The keynote address and a session on using the JAVA programming language were presented by Dr. Mike Conlon, associate vice president and chief information officer for the Health Sciences Center. A live demonstration of the ISIS system was presented by Associate UF Registrars Steve Pritz and Earl Robbins.

Earl Robbins speaks to FAEDS attendees about ISIS, the UF Integrated Student Information System.

In addition, NERDC Director Ron Schoenau served as membership chair and registrar for this conference, assisted by Executive Secretary Patricia Durant and her husband, Dennis, who coordinated the registration desk. NERDC Associate Director Marie Dence served as historian for the conference.

FAEDS is a statewide association founded in 1964, and is dedicated to the advancement of educational technology. FAEDS' mission is to provide a forum for discussion of educational technology issues; offer scholarships to students and teachers majoring in computer-related fields in Florida universities; and to provide support for Florida educational organizations.

Membership in FAEDS is open to anyone interested in the use of computers in education. For more information, please visit the FAEDS home page at: http://www.firn.edu/~faeds/.
